

MASTER CLASS

French fashion house LOUIS VUITTON teamed up with artist Jeff Koons on a new collection of bags and accessories based on reimagined masterpieces of Leonardo da Vinci, Titian (Tiziano Vecelli), Peter Paul Rubens, Jean-Honoré Fragonard and Vincent Van Gogh. Koons borrowed imagery from his long-standing Gazing Ball paintings onto iconic Louis Vuitton bags, such as the Speedy, the Keepall and the Neverfull. Through the Masters collection, the French purveyor once again showcases the House's role as an art patron in creating new ways to experience the arts.

GOT SOUL

Earlier this year, GUCCI hinted that its Pre-Fall campaign would feature all-black models via its "audition" videos on Instagram — a continuation of recent fashion and beauty industries' efforts to promote diversity. Now, the luxury label has finally rolled out the Glen Luchford-shot images, inspired by the American and British soul movement during the 1960s. — Chin Chih Lin

FOLD OVER

MIU Mega employs the same weaving technique MIU MIU does for its Matelassé range. Fluffier and chubbier, these mega pleats are feminine as they are playful. Wear it as an oversized clutch or shoulder sling bag — the MIU Mega is available in two different styles and comes in red, black, nude pink and white.

FOREVER YOUNG

GIVENCHY is launching a kids' wear collection that pays homage to the brand's commercial classics — think logo tees to knit tops, duffle jackets and more. In other news on designer clothes for your little ones, GUCCI has opened its new children's store at The Shoppes at Marina Bay Sands. Conceived as a concept store, the new Gucci children's store presents the aesthetic universe of the House as if seen through the eyes of a child. How adorable!

COMEBACK KID

CHLOE has reopened at The Shoppes at Marina Bay Sands. The thing to look out for is the limited-edition Faye handbag that commemorates its opening. The Chloé boutique is located at #B1-118-120 The Shoppes at Marina Bay Sands.
